AN OCEAN DISASTER!

A Sloop Yacht Capsizes Off the Coast of New York and Twenty-seven of the Passengers and Crew are Drowned.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The sloop yacht "Mystery" left Rifle Bar at 7 o'clock last evening loaded almost to the gunwales with women and children. When off Barren Island the yacht capsized and only thirteen of the forty souls, composing the passengers and crew, are known to have been rescued. The party was made up chiefly of German families, residents of Brooklyn and Long Island City. The accident was caused by too much sail for the violent squall. The catastrophe was witnessed from the tug, J. C. Dean, which was then over two miles away For five minutes the yacht remained on her beam end.

The shrouds and bulwarks afforded some hold for the engulfed people. The struggle for a place to hold on was awful. Fully half of the drowning people were children. Mothers made frantic efforts to get their little ones to where they could hold on to something. A negro put out from Barren island and was the first to aid the drowning people, and seven of those saved can be credited solely to his efforts. When the Dean arrived there were few of the victims still above the water.

According to the latest reports this morning the number of lives lost will not be less than twenty-five and may reach twenty-seven.

Heavy Verdict in a Slander Suit.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 11.—A sensational suit for damages between Miss Cora White and Mr. John Denney, of Ritchie county, was concluded in the Harrisville court Saturday. The parties are both well known and stand well in the community. The plaintiff, Miss White, is one of the most beautiful young ladies in the county, while the defendant, Denney, is a well-known farmer and land owner, who resides near the White homestead. Denney had impugned the character and virtue of the young lady on several occasions in the most outrageous manner, and the young lady's guardians had sued him for damages. The case attracted more general attention than anything which has occurred for a long time, the court house being filled with people from the beginning to the end. Sympathy seemed to have been altogether with the woman, and when the jury brought in a verdict of $3,000 for the plaintiff there was a universal expression of satisfaction.

He Forged Blaine's Name.

MONTREAL, July 11.—Herbert Taylor, of Worchester, Mass., was arrested here a few days ago for attempting to pass a forged check bearing the signature of James G. Blaine, Augusta, Maine. Taylor had been living in grand style at the Windsor hotel, representing himself to be Walker Blaine, son of the Maine statesman. The swindlings of the rascal amount in all to about $1,600, of which $465 was in drafts cashed by the bank of Montreal on Taylor's false representations. The father of the young man arrived from Worcester yesterday, and his meeting with his son in court was very affecting. The trial of young Taylor will be continued on Monday.

The Beecher Case.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The charges against Collector Beecher published in this morning's dispatches from San Francisco are regarded at the treasury department as an old story. They were investigated many months ago and were dismissed. That the department does not consider Beecher guilty of frauds upon the revenue is evidenced by the fact that he is now employed as special agent in the same district of which he formerly had charge as collector. In speaking of the case to-day Secretary Fairchild said it was so old he had almost forgotten it.

Sudden Death From Heart Trouble.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., July 11.—Jacob Alford, aged ninety years, was found dead this morning at eleven o'clock, in the water closet at his home under Odd fellows' hall. Deceased had been under the doctor's care for neuralgia of the heart for several months past, and the supposition is he died of that disease.

Dr. McGlynn.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Contrary to expectation, the edict of excommunication against Dr. McGlynn was not read in any of the New York Catholic churches yesterday. At a crowded meeting of the Anti-Poverty society speeches were made eulogizing the ex-priest and denouncing Archbishop Corrigan.

Fell Under the Wheels.

WELLLVILLE, Ohio, July 11.—Martin Drabble, a young man who was returning from a game of base ball, attempted to board a moving passenger train near here to-night. He fell between the cars and had both legs cut off, one above and the other below the knee. He will die.

A Madman's Terrible Work.

DUBLIN, July 11.—A madman to-day attacked a party of men making hay in a field near Rathfriland, County Down. This lunatic, armed with a bill hook killed four men and wounded two. He then fled, and when captured was standing up to his chin in the water of a neighboring lake.

THE FIERY FLAMES.

The Town of Hurley, Wis., Visited by Fire and Almost Destroyed—Fifteen Lives Known to Have Been Lost.

MARQUETTE, Mich., July 11.—The business portion of the town of Hurley, Wisconsin, was destroyed Saturday night by a fire originating in the Alcazar theatre, a disreputable place of entertainment. Eleven performers or attaches of the theater perished in the flames, and the total number of victims is at least seventeen. The losses aggregate over $500,000.

The fire broke out shortly before the opening of the peformance, at the Alcazar theatre and only a small audience had assembled at that place.

When the alarm of fire was given several of the actors rushed up stairs to their rooms for the purpose of saving their valuables, but the flames overtook them and prevented their escape, the following inmates of the house perished:

Sadie Wells.
Lottie Moore.
Minnie Gifford.
Jennie Allen.
Mabel Haley.
Laura Brainerd.
Sadie McCabe.
William Jackson.
J. W. Vanquirk.
Samuel Haley.

John Jarrett, the stage carpenter, was badly burned, and is not expected to live.

Mabel Powell jumped from a third-story window and was injured so badly that she is not expected to recover.

Jennie Sheridan also leaped from the third story and received serious injuries.

Sadie Wells appeared for a moment, but the floor gave way and she was seen no more.

Jennie Sheridan says that she tried to force Miss Wells to leap from the window, but the latter delayed until it was too late to escape, and the floor fell in, taking her and several others with her.

This fire, together with the one last week, destroys nearly all the business portion of the town, leaving only a few stores.

The St. Louis Encampment.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—The Globe-Democrat makes an editorial announcement, on the authority of the leading members of the financial committee, that the statement made by the evening paper Saturday, and referred to in these dispatches, to the effect that the refusal of the president to visit St. Louis will materially lessen the subscriptions to the Grand Army fund is entirely incorrect. The member of the committee adds that so far the losses are less than $100, and that the percentage of unpaid subscriptions will be much smaller than the average.

Injuries to an Old Soldier.

SPRINGFIELD, July 11.—Private Doty, of Company L, 2nd regiment, was found lying unconscious on the sidewalk, near the public square, a little before 12 o'clock last night. He was carried to the camp, where a surgical examination showed that his skull was fractured, apparently from a blow with a loaded cane, and that he had been kicked in the abdomen. The surgeons pronounce his injuries fatal. It is believed he had a quarrel on the street with a citizen named Joseph Conroy.

President Garfield's Daughter.

CLEVELAND, July 11.—It is stated here that Miss Mollie Garfield, only daughter of the late President Garfield, is engaged to be married to J. Stanley Brown, who it will be remembered was her father's private secretary during his brief career in the presidential office.

Mr. Brown has been very intimate with the Garfield family since the death of the president. He is many years the senior of Miss Mollie. The Garfield family now resides in the old homestead at Mentor.

Otto Herbst, the courteous and efficient assistant postmaster, was taken suddenly ill while at his desk in the postoffice this morning. Before the other office employes could realize the situation convulsions seized Mr. Herbst and Mr. Joe Beegan had difficulty in restraining the unconscious violence of the sufferer.

He soon recovered himself a little and was immediately driven to his home. His ailments proceed from irregularities of his system and the doctors can restore him completely.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

The Gun With Which the Terrible Act Was Committed Resting on the Shoulder of the Dead Man's Sister.

CHARLESTOWN, Ind., July 10.—One of the most cold-blooded murders ever perpetrated in the annals of Clark county was committed near Charlestown Landing, three miles south of this city, between eight and 9 o'clock on Saturday morning. The cause of the terrible deed dates back almost half a century to a firee and bitter feud that existed between the fathers of the murderer and his victim. Soon after the death of the two old gentlemen the feud was renewed by their sons, Jacob Robinson and Samuel Hay, jr., which resulted in the brutal killing of Hay.

Hay and his sister, Miss Belle, were at the Charlestown landing, awaiting the arrival of the Louisville packet, when Jacob Robinson stealthily approached, and cocking both barrels of a shot-gun, rested the weapon on the lady's shoulder, commanding her to remain quiet. She screamed, and before her brother could retreat the murderous devil pulled the triggers and two heavy loads of slugs went crashing through the man's breast. He reeled and fell, but never spoke a word. A short time afterwards he suddenly arose, uttered an agonizing scream and pitched forward dead at his slayer's feet. Robinson then quietly walked home. A messenger was dispatched for an officer, who reached Robinson's house at noon. The murderer was about to sit down to dinner as the officer stepped in and placed him under arrest.

This was the first intimation his family had received of the affair. Robinson did not appear excited in the least, and with brazen face invited the officers to dine with him, saying after they had completed the meal he would shave and don a new suit of clothes. This he did, and at 2 o'clock they arrived here in a buggy. He was afterward taken to Jeffersonville, Ind., and lodged in jail, because it was feared that he would be lynched here.

THE POSTOFFICE.

A Glance at Its Business for the Last Quarter With a Roster of its Office Force and Mail Carriers.

There is no part of the machinery of the national government that comes more closely in contact with the people of the country than the postoffice department. Indeed, in such a manner are the burdens of supporting the nation distributed among the people that were it not for the biennial elections and the constant reminders of politicians and the press, we would almost forget that there was a power at Washington that ruled and controlled the destinies of the nation. The postoffice is the one great institution of the country that keeps the government in contact with the people at every city, town, village and hamlet. Everybody is a patron of the postoffice. Its benefits and blessings are too many to be enumerated here, and the only object of this article is to make the readers of THE SENTINEL more familiar with the employes and the work done by the postoffice in this city.

Our postoffice, with the extensive business and large number of employes, is a government office of no small magnitude and its increasing business is rapidly raising it in the scale of importance. During the last quarter, ending with June 30, 1887, the eleven mail carriers, with thirty delivery and collection trips daily, delivered 374,311 letters, 239,765 newspapers and packages, 74,060 postal cards and by general delivery 3,840 registered letters, while the carriers collected 144,045 letters, 39,378 postal cards and 9,945 newspapers, and the general delivery at the post office during that time delivered 50,127 letters, 23,214 newspapers and packages, 4,986 postal cards and collected 152,138 letters, 38,475 newspapers and packages, 41,222 postal cards. This is an increased showing over the preceeding quarter and it is a fact worthy of mention that with this large amount of mailing matter handled only 81 letters and packages failed of delivery. The money order office issued during this time 3,417 postal notes and money orders aggregatnig $33,407,81 and paid 8,401 postal notes and money orders aggregating $17,355.87. The amount received from postmasters on money order account was $88,425, and the amount received from 350 postmasters on general postal account, was $9,333.58. The receipts of the office from the sale of postage stamps, stamped envelopes and wrappers, was $8,887.67, and from box rent and waste paper, $138.72. The total increase in receipts on the business of the year was $3,20 over preceding years.

The total number of mail pouches dispatched from the office during one single day is seventeen, and at night, eleven; tie sacks each day, eleven; at night, twenty-four. The registered letters handled daily in transit, 2,339, and the average number of letters handled daily is 7,567, and postal cards, 2,522.

The postmaster, Mr. Wm. Kaough, is a pleasant and popular gentleman, and he is to be complimented, not only for the way in which the business of the office has been conducted, but the assistants which the following roster shows he has gathered around him in the office.

Postmaster, Wm. Kaough; assistant postmaster, Otto Herbst; mailing clerks, Joseph C. Williard and Carl Siemon; general delivery clerk, F. J. Drake; stamping clerk, Ed. Clausmeier; assistant stamp clerk, W. F. Bohling; money order clerk, Joseph F. Beegan; assistant money order and register clerk, Thomas J. Lanigan; assistant mail clerk and night watchman, Elmer L. Cutler, and special delivery messenger, George Graffe. The total amount of salaries paid this force, which includes the postmaster, is $9,120 per year.

The department of mail carriers is as follows: Superintendent, F. P. Mensch; assistant superintendent and carrier of route No. 9, W. C. Baade. Mail carriers: Route No. 1, John Gloeckle; No. 2, Fred Vollmer; No. 3, C. W. Schirmeyer; No. 4, Chas. A. Hans; No. 5, W. H. Clear; No. 6, Geo. A. Alter; No. 7, August LaGraw; No. 8, Con Schuler; No. 9, Wm. C. Baade; No. 10, John Schutz, and a substitute, Jacob Bastian. The aggregate salaries of this force, including the superintendent and assistant superintendent, is $9,101, the mail carriers, with the exception of a single one, each receiving for their salaries $850 per year. This makes the entire salaries of the office amount to $18,221 per year.

Both papers were issued to-day as usual, with a full force of compositors.

In the third round Nevitt's nose was broken and his right eye badly battered and he received a bad cut on the head. The round closed by Dempsey's knocking him out of the ring. Nevitt being unable to rise, Dempsey was declared the winner. Nevitt became seriously ill and had to be taken home in a carriage from the boat.

RUSSIA is again stirring European affairs by denouncing the election of Prince Ferdinand as ruler of Bulgaria.

THERE has been a mild revolution in the Hawaiian kingdom. King Kalakaua had to dismiss his ministry and submit to a people's constitution to save his royal head. He appears to have had a precious gang of rascals about him.

MR. GLADSTONE'S home rule party seem to be gaining strength in the pending elections in the British provinces. A testimonial, consisting of a massive piece of silver, was presented to Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden castle, Saturday, on behalf of his American admirers, by Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, of the New York World. Mr. Gladstone accepted the tribute in a few graceful remarks.

HON. HENRY WATERSON, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, is enthusiastic over Mr. Cleveland's St. Louis letter, and speaks of the president with genuine Blue-Grass fervor as the "very apotheosis of common sense." He predicts Cleveland's renomination and reelection over Mr. Blaine, whom he regards as the certain republican nominee. He also predicts the passage of a tariff reform bill by the fiftieth congress.

THE Indianapolis republican city nominating convention was held Saturday night. C. S. Denny, the present incumbent, was selected for mayor, and John W. Bowlus for clerk. An enthusiastic puritan attempted to get a plank into the platform making war against the ill-fame element, and calling for the prosecution of property holders who rented for ill-fame purposes, but he was set upon, and this was included in a general way in a mild demand for the enforcement of all the laws.

THE News and Gazette, republican papers, continue to pursue the O'Brien investigation with mild insinuations of his guilt and hint at irregularities elsewhere in the municipal government. Mr. H. C. Hanna, who prosecuted Mr. Dennis O'Brien, was manly enough to say to the council that but two charges were proven against the street commissioner, viz: For illegally cleaning the alley near the Home billiard hall, and for allowing a city employe double wages for one-half a day. This is the extent of Mr. O'Brien's guilt from the severest standpoint. If the Gazette has any additional exposures to make, we hope it will not hesitate to give them publicity. THE SENTINEL and the democratic party expect public servants to do their honest duty and are more closely interested in a clean, honorable administration of city affairs than the republicans possibly can be, for upon the strength of past public service do we look for future success.

THE force of bad example has its illustration in governments as well as in individuals. Thus, because France and Germany are arming themselves to the teeth, and increasing the taxes upon the people in order to meet the expenses thereof, little Belgium must needs go and do likewise. The prime minister desires to strengthen the fortresses on the Meuse River. Probably Italy, Greece, and Switzerland will in due time follow, and thus the continent, before the end of the year, will be a vast camp. Such a strain as this must exhaust the resources of any people, and weaken them, even in times of peace. Even a war could not be much worse in draining the resources of any nation than such an armed neutrality as prevails at present in Europe.

Diyphtheria.

"I am living in a neighborhood surrounded with Diphtheria and was attacked with Ulcerated Sore Throat. I at once commenced to use Darbys Prophylactic Fluid, diluted about one half, as a gargle, when great clots of hard membrane and mucous came from my throat, and the attack passed off. I am satisfied fo its efficacy as a preventive and cure for Diphtheria."—W. P. WOODWARD, Frankford, Pa.

THIS remarkably pleasing horse story comes from Inyo, Cal.: A load of hay was put in a yard near a stable. A horse was loose in the yard, two others being tied in the stable, the door of which was open. After eating a few bites of the hay the loose horse appeared to remember that his companions were debarred from the feast. He took large mouthfuls, carried it into the stable, and placed it before the other horses.

MRS. BROWN of Bates Island, Portland (Me.) harbor, is 85 years old. Besides keeping her house in apple-pie order, caring for cows and hens, and entertaining her callers with interesting conversation and fresh milk, Mrs. Brown has dug, barreled, and delivered fourteen barrels of clam bait this year, selling at $4 to $5 a barrel above the cost of the barrel. In her younger days Mrs. Brown used to be an expert in fishing, going out alone in her boat and coming back with it well filled, after which she would dress her fish and sell them.

IN the new cafes chantants at Paris the spectator is taken into a dark room and placed in a chair before a long ledge into which are let framed pieces of glass, one before each person. One sees in the glass the exact representation of the stage of a theater. Presently the performances begins. Upon this miniature stage appears a miniature performer—3½ inches high—who sings and dances in the usual cafe chantant style. This little figure, and, indeed, the stage itself, is simply the reduced copy (thrown by some arrangements of lights and reflection upon the glass we are watching) of an actual stage and an actual performer who is singing on the other side of the partition.

LARGER and more important works have been carried out by despotic sovereigns and great empires, but the cathedral of the city of Dante owes its beginning and ending, its qualities and dignity, whatever they may be, to the intermittent but steadfast determination of the people of Florence, its origin not being due to the genius of one man or the enlightenment of a sovereign but to the taste and devotion of that people. The vicissitudes of its construction are, as an example of civic vitality and character, of a romantic interest, and in the history of architecture it stands alone as a result of popular will and direction. For its architect was neither Arnolfo nor Brunelleschi, but the council of the workmen and citizens of Florence.

OF course Henry M. Stanley, the great African explorer, is known by reputation to everybody, says a Little Rock dispatch to the Missouri Republican, but in conversation with Col. Lee L. Thompson, who was State Senator from Little Rock two years ago, the following bit of conversation concerning the explorer's early career in Arkansas was learned: In 1862 Stanley entered the Confederate service as First Lieutenant in Capt. Whitsett's company, Col. Lee L. Thompson's regiment. He was a bright, sparkling young man, about five feet nine and a half inches in height, weighing 135 pounds, and in complexion a blonde. For awhile he was the life of his company, his experience in the world, his native shrewdness, and liberal education combining to make him the center of attraction in the camp. In the spring of 1863 the regiment was camped on the Arkansas River just below Ozark, and while thus camped pay-day rolled around. The Quartermaster was also paymaster, and, although a little irregular in procedure, he would foot up the amount due each company and turn the gross amount over to the senior officer of the company for distribution among the soldiers. At this time Capt. Whitsett was absent, and Lieut. Stanley was, of course, the senior officer, acting as captain. Into his hands the money was placed to pay out to the men. That morning he obtained a leave of absence for the day and at once rode away into the country. When night began to draw her sable robes around the scenes of nature the young lieutenant was still absent. Knowing him to be a Northern man the soldiers at once became uneasy, and without hesitancy expressed their fears to Col. Thompson. Next morning Col. Thompson started two men in pursuit of the absent man. They got on his trail and followed him to the Rio Grande River, but were unable to catch him. He had money, and would occasionally buy a fresh horse. The two men sent after Stanley were gone forty days. Stanley worked his way North, and later on, during the conflict, returned to Arkansas with the Union forces, but this time his weapon was the pen, not the sword—he was the correspondent of the New York Herald. The above is authentic history, detailed by Col. Thompson, but appearing in print for the first time.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

DYSPEPSIA

Up to a few weeks ago I considered myself the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried almost everything claimed to be a specefic for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had about made up my mind to adandon all medicines when I noticed an endorsement of SIMMON'S LIVER REGULATOR by a prominent Georgian, a jurist whom I knew, and coneluded to try its effects in my case. I have used but two bottles, and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. I felt its beneficial effects almost immediately- Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what one shall or shall not eat. This fact alone ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia.

Where Irving Is Buried.

From a paper by Clarence Cook in the Century, we quote as follows: "I confess I heard not without a secret pleasure that the relic-hunters so chip and hammer the stone that marks Irving's grave as to make its frequent renewal necessary. It did not seem to me a grievous wrong, but rather a testimony to the lovableness of Irving's character, and an evidence of the wide extent of his fame, that, from filling the circle of the educated and refined among his countrymen, has now come to include that lower stratum of our common humanity which has only instinctive and, so to speak, mechanical ways of expressing its feelings.

"It would not have been easy to find a place more in harmony with the associations that gather about Irving's name as a writer than the spot in which he is buried. Even to-day, when all the changes that have been brought about by the growth of the neighboring settlement, the spirit of peace and quiet that used to brood over the region hovers there undisturbed. Irving's own words, in the 'Legend of Sleepy Hollow,' describing the graveyard, the old church, and the stream that plays about its feet, reflect with the faithfulness of a mirror the scene as we behold it to-day.

"Here is the church, a small building with rough sides of the country-stone, surmounted by a picturesque roof, and with an open bell-turret over which still veers the vane pierced with the initials of the Vrederick Felypsen who built the church and endowed it in 1699. In our rambles about the graveyard we used to find the bricks of light-colored clay, brought from Holland, and of which, so tradition said, the church had been originally built, or which had, at any rate, been largely used in its construction.

"The church was seldom used, except in the summer time. On communion Sundays the handsome seventeenth century Jacobean table of oak brought from Holland, where plenty like it may still be found, was set out, as it is to-day, with the plain vessels of silver 'presented by Queen Anne,' as the formula goes, that used to please my childish taste for things that had about them the flavor of old days.

"The same budding taste for antiquities led me and some of my schoolmates to the old grave-yard, where we hunted up the oldest tombstones, scraping off the moss and lichens to decipher the names and dates, and enjoying many a laugh over their carved ornaments, scrolls, and cockle-shells, and sturdy, dew-lapped, Dutch cherubs, with their stumpy little wings scored like checker-boards for plumage. Many of these grave-stones were said to have been imported from Holland by the early settlers, like the bricks of which the church was built, the table in the church, and much of the furniture to be found in the farm-houses of the country-side, chairs and tables, cupboards, and even looking-glasses. The carvings, memorial verses, and scripture-texts upon these tombstones were cut by the more skilful workmen over-seas, and the names and dates were filled in here at home as occasion called."

Dropping Out of the Sky.

The descent of a balloon in a remote backwoods settlement is almost invariably productive of amusing incidents. Landing once in a mountainous district in the State of Georgia, writes King, the aeronaut, my companion and myself were astonished at hearing loud shrieks and exclamations issuing from a house near by, while in the doorway we saw an old lady upon her knees, praying with great vociferation. The whole neighborhood had been aroused, and an earthquake could not have excited greater commotion. In the woods, not far from our landing-place, we found a bag of meal lying in the path. It had been dropped by some panic-stricken native. Farther on a fishing party had abandoned several strings of fish. Our comedy came measurably near ending in tragedy, for we had a narrow escape from the shotguns of a gang of illicit distillers, who took us to be revenue officers. On the occasion of a recent descent in Southern Virginia a devout colored woman, catching sight of the balloon, gazed upon it in rapt admiration, exclaiming:

"Dar comes my blessed Jesus, walking on de clouds! I take my children out on de public road! Suffin' gwine to happen! Hallelujah!" and she went on shouting till the truth was explained to her.

Another Afro-American, hearing me call to him, started off at full speed, crying, as he ran:

"Gabriel's done called me, I hear him holler!"

Very amusing was the experience of Elliot, in one of his descents. He had ascended from Charleston on a summer afternoon and was carried slowly down the harbor, landing at last, just at nightfall, on one of the islands. There was to be a wake that night, and the dead negro, Dick by name, lay in the cabin, while a dozen live ones sat outside telling spook stories, when Elliot dropped down in front of them. There was a yell, a scramble, and in a moment all but one had disappeared. He had been caught by the aeronaut's anchor and dragged some distance, screaming piteously:

"Oh, Massa Debil! Massa Debil! I'se not de niggar! I'se not de niggar! Dick's in dah! Dick's in dah!"—The Argonaut.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving he child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

By Rail in Mexico.

The train is made up of first, second, and third-class cars, says Charles Dudley Warner, writing in Harper's Magazine of a railway journey in Mexico. The Mexican men in the first-class, yellow half-breeds, are gorgeous in array, wearing enormous and heavy high-crowned, broad-brimmed hats, loaded with silver and gold bullion, trousers braided down the seams or thick sewn with coins or buttons of silver, every man with a pistol ostentatiously strapped on his waist, and many of them carrying guns. These gentlemen are going to hunt at some hacienda in the hills, and at the stations where they alight there is great scurrying about, getting into rickety carriages, mounting heavily caparisoned little horses, which fidget and curvet. There is an amusing air of bravado about it all.

The third-class cars have four parallel benches running from end to end, and are packed with a motley throng—Indian-looking Mexican women in blue ribosas, plenty of children and babies, men in soiled serapes and big hats, everybody eating some odd mess. At all the stations the train makes a long halt, and the sides of the cars swarm with hucksters, mostly women and boys, offering the sapotas and other tasteless fruits, tamales and other indescribable edibles, ices (flavored and colored snow), pink drinks faintly savored with limes, and pulque. The tamale is a favorite composite all over the republic. It consists of chopped meat, tomatoes, and chile rolled in a tortilla. The tortilla, perhaps it is necessary to say, the almost universal country substitute for bread, is a cake made of maize, and about the size of a large buck-wheat cake. Its manufacture is one of the chief occupations of the women. In almost every hut and garden one can hear the grinding and the patting of the tortilla. Seated on the ground the woman has beside her a dish of soaking grains of maize. In front of her is a carved stone, and upon this she mashes the maize with a stone roller held in both hands until it is a paste. This paste she molds and skillfully pats into shape, and lays upon a piece of sheet-iron to bake over a charcoal fire.

Giants to Order.

Medieval literature abounds in giants. A monstrous one was found in England in 1171; the bones of Polyphemus were dug up in Sicily, and from time to time such remains were discovered all over Europe, and as the finders always knew the particular individual to whom the bones belonged, many duly labeled were hung up in the churches. Thus an elephant's shoulder-blade did duty for St. Christopher in a Venetian church, and the bones of Teutobocchus, King of the Teutons (now known to be a mastodon's skeleton), were, according to Mazuya, found in a brick tomb bearing the inscription: "Teutobocchus rex." Felix Plater's famous giant which still figures in the arms of Lucerene, rose from the elephant remains found in 1577. A large elephant's tooth was sent from Constantinople to Vienna and offered to the Emperor for 2,000 thalers. The discoverers pretended to have found it in a subterranean chamber at Jerusalem which bore the Chaldean inscription: "Here lies the giant Og." But this was too great a strain on the faith of a very credulous age, and the Emperor declined to purchase because, as Lambecius quaintly says, "the whole thing looked very like an imposition."—Scribner's

New and Old Violins.

There is a great deal of nonsense afloat about the "new principle" of making violins, by which new instruments are as desirable as old. People are all at sea about the worth of a violin. Why, if $100 were paid for a new violin, as is often advertised, it is a high price showing less wisdom than an abundance of money. Any sum above $100 is an artificial price, just as in the case of china bric-a-brac, where fashion makes the market. The fashion is rather violent, I might add, at present, and violins made on "a new principle" are quoted high. The value of age is that it mellows the tone, and there is no new principle that can accomplish that. The ear of the average mortal is not sensible to the finer qualties of tone, and hence a new violin is as exquisite to it as the oldest Cremona. Twenty-five dollars is a good price for a new violin, but there is no quotation on an old one. One rule is that it is worth what we can get.—St. Louis Republican.

LIBERTY is the right to do what the laws allow; and if a citizen could do what they forbid it would be no longer liberty, because others would have the same power.—Montesquieu.

IT WON'T BAKE BREAD.—In other words, Hood's Sarsaparilla will not do impossibilities. Its proprietors tell plainly what it has done, submit proofs from sources of unquestioned reliability, and ask you frankly if you are suffering from any disease or affection caused or promoted by impure blood or low state of the system, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The experience of others is sufficient assurance that you will not be disappointed in the result.

Care for the Children

Children feel the debility of the changing seasons, even more than adults, and they become cross, peevish, and uncontrollable. The blood should be cleansed and the system invigorated by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Last Spring my two children were vaccinated. Soon after, they broke all out with running sores, so dreadful I thought I should lose them. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured them completely; and they have been healthy ever since. I do feel that Hood's Sarsaparilla saved my children to me." MRS. C. L. THOMPSON, West Warren, Mass.

Purify the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

His mother used to keep the Fleming house and the capers of the visionary youth will be recalled.

The Kiowa, Kansas, Journal says: "D. A. Woodworth came down from Kansas City some time ago and went out on the prairies with some of the boys to hunt wild, wild! wolves. D. A. Woodworth became very much excited, and described in the most graphic manner the chase after the voracious beast of the prairie. The truth of the business is that the wolf was a little tame animal taken from Cookson's menagerie by Cattell and others and palmed off on Woodworth as the wildest kind of a wolf. The boys had a good laugh after Woodworth left town."

No. 1,930 won the grand organ in Sam, Pete & Max's great presentation scheme. Who has it? 7-d&wtf

EXAMINE BEFORE YOU BUY.

WHEN in the grocer's store you stand
And cakes of IVORY SOAP demand,
Be careful not to be misled
And imitations take instead,
For dealers oft will praises sing
Of that which may more profit bring.
Let not your senses clouded be
Because a snowy cake you see,
For villainy is not confined
To darkest colors, bear in mind,
And oft the sham is not remote
From fairest face or whitest coat.
Examine well with careful eye
The cake until the name you spy,
And always thus be well assured
That IVORY SOAP you have procured;
And should a lingering doubt remain,
'Twill vanish, like the darkest stain,
When in the tub on washing day
That cake of soap is brought in play.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Mrs. Hollis Gillette, a notorious female, gave a seance at her parlors over the Geistdorfer saloon, last night. She paralized things for a while and demoralized the profane vocabulary in a methodical manner. Officer Humbrecht escorted the Main street fairy to the cooler and she was scarcely sober when Mayor Muhler sentenced her to jail. AN OCEAN DISASTER!

A Sloop Yacht Capsizes Off the Coast of New York and Twenty-seven of the Passengers and Crew are Drowned.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The sloop yacht "Mystery" left Rifle Bar at 7 o'clock last evening loaded almost to the gunwales with women and children. When off Barren Island the yacht capsized and only thirteen of the forty souls, composing the passengers and crew, are known to have been rescued. The party was made up chiefly of German families, residents of Brooklyn and Long Island City. The accident was caused by too much sail for the violent squall. The catastrophe was witnessed from the tug, J. C. Dean, which was then over two miles away. For five minutes the yacht remained on her beam end.

The shrouds and bulwarks afforded some hold for the engulfed people. The struggle for a place to hold on was awful. Fully half of the drowning people were children. Mothers made frantic efforts to get their little ones to where they could hold on to something. A negro put out from Barren island and was the first to aid the drowning people, and seven of those saved can be credited solely to his efforts. When the Dean arrived there were few of the victims still above the water.

According to the latest reports this morning the number of lives lost will not be less than twenty-five and may reach twenty-seven.

Heavy Verdict in a Slander Suit.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 11.—A sensational suit for damages between Miss Cora White and Mr. John Denney, of Ritchie county, was concluded in the Harrisville court Saturday. The parties are both well known and stand well in the community. The plaintiff, Miss White, is one of the most beautiful young ladies in the county, while the defendant, Denney, is a well known farmer and land owner, who resides near the White homestead. Denney had impugned the character and virtue of the young lady on several occasions in the most outrageous manner, and the young lady's guardians had sued him for damages. The case attracted more general attention than anything which has occurred for a long time, the court house being filled with people from the beginning to the end. Sympathy seemed to have been altogether with the woman, and when the jury brought in a verdict of $3,000 for the plaintiff there was a universal expression of satisfaction.

He Forged Blaine's Name.

MONTREAL, July 11.—Herbert Taylor, of Worchester, Mass., was arrested here a few days ago for attempting to pass a forged check bearing the signature of James G. Blaine, Augusta, Maine. Taylor had been living in grand style at the Windsor hotel, representing himself to be Walker Blaine, son of the Maine statesman. The swindlings of the rascal amount in all to about $1,600, of which $465 was in drafts cashed by the bank of Montreal on Taylor's false representations. The father of the young man arrived from Worcester yesterday, and his meeting with his son in court was very affecting. The trial of young Taylor will be continued on Monday.

The Beecher Case.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The charges against Collector Beecher published in this morning's dispatches from San Francisco are regarded at the treasury department as an old story. They were investigated many months ago and were dismissed. That the department does not consider Beecher guilty of frauds upon the revenue is evidenced by the fact that he is now employed as special agent in the same district of which he formerly had charge as collector. In speaking of the case to-day Secretary Fairchild said it was so old he had almost forgotten it.

Sudden Death From Heart Trouble.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., July 11.—Jacob Alford, aged ninety years, was found dead this morning at eleven o'clock, in the water closet at his home under Odd fellows' hall. Deceased had been under the doctor's care for neuralgia of the heart for several months past, and the supposition is he died of that disease.

Dr. McGlynn.

Fell Under the Wheels.

WELLSVILLE, Ohio, July 11.—Martin Drabble, a young man who was returning from a game of base ball, attempted to board a moving passenger train near here to-night. He fell between the cars and had both legs cut off, one above and the other below the knee. He will die.

THE FIERY FLAMES.

The Town of Hurley, Wis., Visited by Fire and Almost Destroyed - Fifteen Lives Known to Have Been Lost.

MARQUETTE, Mich., July 11.—The business portion of the town of Hurley, Wisconsin, was destroyed Saturday night by a fire originating in the Alcazar theatre, a disreputable place of entertainment. Eleven performers or attaches of the theater perished in the flames, and the total number of victims is at least seventeen. The losses aggregate over $500,000.

The fire broke out shortly before the opening of the peformances, at the Alcazar theatre and only a small audience had assembled at that place.

When the alarm of fire was given several of the actors rushed up stairs to their rooms for the purpose of saving their valuables, but the flames overtook them and prevented their escape, the following inmates of the house perished:

Sadie Wells.
Lottie Moore,
Minnie Gifford.
Jennie Allen.
Mabel Haley.
Laura Brainerd.
Sadie McCabe.
William Jackson.
J. W. Vanquirk.
Samuel Haley.
John Jarrett, the stage carpenter, was badly burned, and is not expected to live.

Mabel Powell jumped from a third-story window and was injured so badly that she is not expected to recover.

Jennie Sheridan also leaped from the third story and received serious injuries.

Sadie Wells appeared for a moment, but the floor gave way and she was seen no more.

Jennie Sheridan says that she tried to force Miss Wells to leap from the window, but the latter delayed until it was too late to escape, and the floor fell in, taking her and several others with her.

This fire, together with the one last week, destroys nearly all the business portion of the town, leaving only a few stores.

The St. Louis Encampment.

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—The Globe-Democrat makes an editorial announcement, on the authority of the leading members of the financial committee, that the statement made by the evening paper Saturday, and referred to in these dispatches, to the effect that the refusal of the president to visit St. Louis will materially lessen the subscriptions to the Grand Army fund is entirely incorrect. The members of the committee adds that so far the losses are less than $100, and that the percentage of unpaid subscriptions will be much smaller than the average.

Injuries to an Old Soldier.

SPRINGFIELD, July 11.—Private Doty, of Company L, 2nd regiment, was found lying unconscious on the sidewalk, near the public square, a little before 12 o'clock last night. He was carried to the camp, where a surgical examination showed that his skull was fractured, apparently from a blow with a loaded cane, and that he had been kicked in the abdomen. The surgeons pronounce his injuries fatal. It is believed he had a quarrel on the street with a citizen named Joseph Conroy.

President Garfield's Daughter.

CLEVELAND, July 11.—It is stated here that Miss Mollie Garfield, only daughter of the late President Garfield, is engaged to be married to J. Stanley Brown, who it will be remembered was her father's private secretary during his brief career in the presidential office.

Mr. Brown is the best very intimate with the Garfield family since the death of the president. He is many years the senior of Miss Mollie. The Garfield family now resides in the old homestead at Mentor.

Otto Herbst, the courteous and efficient assistant postmaster, was taken suddenly ill while at his desk in the postoffice this morning. Before the other office employes could realize the situation convulsions seized Mr. Herbst and Mr. Jos Bergan had difficulty in restraining the unconscious violence of the sufferer.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

The Gun With Which the Terrible Act Was Committed Resting on the Shoulder of the Dead Man's Sister.

CHARLESTOWN, Ind., July 10.—One of the most cold-blooded murders ever perpetrated in the annals of Clark county was committed near Charlestown Landing, three miles south of this city, between eight and 9 o'clock on Saturday morning. The cause of the terrible deed dates back almost half a century to a fierce and bitter feud that existed between the fathers of the murderer and his victim. Soon after the death of the two old gentlemen the feud was renewed by their sons, Jacob Robinson and Samuel Hay, jr., which resulted in the brutal killing of Hay.

Hay and his sister, Miss Belle, were at the Charlestown landing, awaiting the arrival of the Louisville packet, when Jacob Robinson stealthily approached, and cocking both barrels of a shot-gun, rested the weapon on the lady's shoulder, commanding her to remain quiet. She screamed, and before her brother could retreat the murderous devil pulled the triggers and two heavy loads of slugs went crashing through the man's breast. He reeled and fell, but never spoke a word. A short time afterwards he suddenly arose, uttered an agonizing scream and pitched forward dead at his slayer's feet. Robinson then quietly walked home. A messenger was dispatched for an officer, who reached Robinson's house at noon. The murderer was about to sit down to dinner as the officer stepped in and placed him under arrest.

This was the first intimation his family had received of the affair. Robinson did not appear excited in the least, and with brazen face invited the officers to dine with him, saying after they had completed the meal he would shave and don a new suit of clothes. This he did, and at 2 o'clock they arrived here in a buggy. He was afterward taken to Jeffersonville, Ind., and lodged in jail, because it was feared that he would be lynched here.

THE POSTOFFICE.

A Glance at Its Business for the Last Quarter With a Roster of Its Office Force and Mail Carriers.

There is no part of the machinery of the national government that comes more closely in contact with the people of the country than the postoffice department. Indeed, in such a manner are the burdens of supporting the nation distributed among the people that were it not for the biennial elections and the constant reminders of politicians and the press, we would almost forget that there was a power at Washington that rules and controlled the destinies of the nation. The postoffice is the one great institution in the country that keeps the government in contact with the people at every city, town, village and hamlet. Everybody is a patron of the postoffice. Its benefits and blessings are too many to be enumerated here, and the only object of this article is to make the readers of THE SENTINEL more familiar with the employes and the work done by the postoffice in this city.

Our postoffice, with the extensive business and large number of employes, is a government office of no small magnitude and its increasing business is rapidly rising it in the scale of importance. During the last quarter, ending with June 30, 1887, the eleven mail carriers, with thirty delivery and collection trips daily, delivered 374,311 letters, 239,765 newspapers and packages, 74,060 postal cards and by general delivery 8,840 registered letters, while the carriers collected 144,045 letters, 89,378 postal cards and 9,945 newspapers, and the general delivery at the post office during that time delivered 50,127 letters, 21,214 newspapers and packages, 1,986 postal cards and collected 152,138 letters, 38,475 newspapers and packages, 11,221 postal cards. This is an increased showing over the preceeding quarter and it is a fact worthy of mention that with this large amount of mailing matter handled only 81 letters and packages failed of delivery. The money order office issued during this time 9,417 postal notes and money orders aggregating $35,407.81 and paid 8,401 postal notes and money orders aggregating $17,355.87. The amount received from postmasters on money order account was $86.425, and the amount received from 350 postmasters on general postal account, was $9,333.58. The receipts of the office from the sale of postage stamps, stamped envelopes and wrappers, was $8,867.67, and from box rent and waste paper, $138.72. The total increase in receipts on the business of the year was $3,20 over preceeding years.

The total number of mail pouches dispatched from the office during one single day is seventeen, and at night, eleven; tie sacks each day, eleven; at night, twenty-four. The registered letters handled daily in transit, 2,319, and the average number of letters handled daily is 7,567, and postal cards, 2,522.

The postmaster, Mr. Wm. Keough, is a pleasant and popular gentleman, and he is to be complimented, not only for the way in which the business of the office has been conducted, but the assistants which the following roster shows he has gathered around him in the office:

Postmaster, Wm. Keough; assistant postmaster, Otto Herbst; mailing clerks, Joseph C. Willard and Carl Siemon; general delivery clerk, F. J. Drake, stamping clerk, Ed. Clausmeier; assistant stamp clerk, W. F. Bobbing; money order clerk, Joseph F. Reegan; assistant money order and register clerk, Thomas J. Lanigan; assistant mail clerk and night watchman, Elmer L. Cutler, and special delivery messenger, George Graffe. The total amount of salaries paid this force, which includes the postmaster, is $9,120 per year.

The department of mail carriers is as follows: Superintendent, F. P. Meneeh; assistant superintendent and carrier of Route No. 9, W. C. Baade. Mail carriers: Route No. 1, John Gloeckle; No. 2, Fred Vollmer; No. 3, C. W. Schirmeyer; No. 4, Chas. A. Hase; No. 5, W. H. Clear; No. 6, Geo. A. Alter; No. 7, Anvust LaGraw; No. 8, Con Schuler; No. 9, Wm. C. Baade; No. 10, John Schutz, and a substitute, Jacob Bastian. The aggregate salaries of this force, including the superintendent and assistant superintendent, is $9,101, the mail carriers, with the exception of a single one, each receiving for their salaries $850 per year. This makes the entire salaries of the office amount to $18,221 per year.

Twenty-five more men were expected yesterday from St. Louis. There have been no deeds of violence thus far to amount to much.

Both papers were issued to-day as usual, with a full force of compositors.

In the third round Nevitt's nose was broken and his right eye badly battered and he received a bad cut on the head. The round closed by Dempsey's knocking him out of the ring. Nevitt being unable to rise, Dempsey was declared the winner. Nevitt became seriously ill and had to be taken home in a carriage from the boat.

John C. Cheatham, Selma, N. C., writes: "I got an arm in the Southern army and for a dozen years in Bowie's Texas rangers, fighting fevers. I was never laid down when I heard of Kaskine, the new quinine. It helped me at once. I got well in quick time. Have not had such good health in 30 years."

Mrs. Caroline Aiken, Astoria, N. Y., writes: Last winter I was down so rapid by rheumatism that I would faint away sitting in my chair. I heard of Kaskine, the new quinine. I tried it. I have Kaskine I was well. It cured a general run down of the system. I think that for kaskine is the best medicine to-day."

Daily Sentinel

MONDAY, JULY 11, 1887.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has completely disarmed his enemies.

RUSSIA is again stirring European affairs by denouncing the election of Prince Ferdinand as ruler of Bulgaria.

SECRETARY WHITNEY has made a neat turn in real estate, having sold his country seat near Washington, which cost him $30,000 in 1885, for $112,500.

GENERAL BOULANGER is again in command of the French army. He comes nearer being the popular idol than any man in France since Napoleon's downfall.

THERE has been a mild revolution in the Hawaiian kingdom. King Kalakaua had to dismiss his ministry and submit to a people's constitution to save his royal head. He appears to have had a precious gang of rascals about him.

AN increase in the corn acreage of the country over last year of about 1,500,000 acres, or 2 per cent., is estimated by the department of agriculture. The average condition of winter wheat is 86.7 per cent. and of spring wheat 79.3. Other average conditions are reported as follows: Corn 99, winter rye 88, spring rye 84 3, barley 82.8, oats 91, potatoes 93, tobacco 84, cotton 97.

MR. GLADSTONE'S home rule party seem to be gaining strength in the pending elections in the British provinces. A testimonial, consisting of a massive piece of silver, was presented to Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden castle, Saturday, on behalf of his American admirers, by Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, of the New York World. Mr. Gladstone accepted the tribute in a few graceful remarks.

HON. HENRY WATTERSON, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal, is enthusiastic over Mr. Cleveland's St. Louis letter, and speaks of the president with genuine Blue-Grass fervor as the "very apotheosis of common sense." He predicts Cleveland's renomination and reelection over Mr. Blaine, whom he regards as the certain republican nominee. He also predicts the passage of a tariff reform bill by the fiftieth congress.

THE Indianapolis republican city nominating convention was held Saturday night. C. S. Denny, the present incumbent, was selected for mayor, and John W. Bowles for clerk. An enthusiastic puritan attempted to get a plank into the platform making war against the ill-fame element, and calling for the prosecution of property holders who rented for ill fame purposes, but he was set upon, and this was included in a general way in a mild demand for the enforcement of all the laws.

THE News and Gazette, republican papers, continue to pursue the O'Brien investigation with mild insinuations of his guilt and hint at irregularities elsewhere in the municipal government. Mr. H. C. Hanna, who prosecuted Mr. Dennis O'Brien, was manly enough to say to the council that but two charges were proven against the street commissioner, viz: For illegally cleaning the alley near the Home billiard hall, and for allowing a city employe double wages for one-half a day. This is the extent of Mr. O'Brien's guilt from the severest standpoint. If the Gazette has any additional exposures to make, we hope it will not hesitate to give them publicity. THE SENTINEL and the democratic party expect public servants to do their honest duty and are more closely interested in a clean, honorable administration of city affairs than the republicans possibly can be, for upon the strength of past public service do we look for future success.

THE force of bad example has its illustration in governments as well as in individuals. Thus, because France and Germany are arming themselves to the teeth, and increasing the taxes upon the people in order to meet the expenses thereof, little Belgium must needs go and do likewise. The prime minister desires to strengthen the fortresses on the Meuse River. Probably Italy, Greece, and Switzerland will in due time follow, and thus the continent before the end of the year, will be a vast camp. Such a strain as this must exhaust the resources of any people, and weaken them, even in times of peace. Even a war could not be much worse in draining the resources of any nation than such an armed neutrality as prevails at present in Europe.

Diphtheria.

"I am living in a neighborhood surrounded with Diphtheria and was attacked with Ulcerated Sore Throat. I at once commenced to use Darbys Prophylactic Fluid, diluted about one half, as a gargle, when great clots of hard membrane and mucous came from my throat, and the attack passed off. I am satisfied to its efficacy as a preventive and cure for Diphtheria."—W. F. Woodward, Frankford, Pa.

THIS remarkably pleasing horse story comes from Inyo, Cal.: A load of hay was put in a yard near a stable. A horse was loose in the yard, two others being tied in the stable, the door of which was open. After eating a few bites of the hay the loose horse appeared to remember that his companions were debarred from the feast. He took large mouthfuls, carried it into the stable, and placed it before the other horses.

MRS. BROWN of Bates Island, Portland (Me.) harbor, is 85 years old. Besides keeping her house in apple-pie order, caring for cows and hens, and entertaining her callers with interesting conversation and fresh milk, Mrs. Brown has dug, barreled, and delivered fourteen barrels of clam bait this year, selling at $1 to $2 a barrel above the cost of the barrel. In her younger days Mrs. Brown used to be an expert in fishing, going out alone in her boat and coming back with it well filled, after which she would dress her fish and sell them.

IN the new cafes chantants at Paris the spectator is taken into a dark room and placed in a chair before a long ledge into which are let framed pieces of glass, one before each person. One sees in the glass the exact representation of the stage of a theater. Presently the performances begins. Upon this miniature stage appears a miniature performer—3½ inches high—who sings and dances in the usual cafe chantant style. This little figure, and, indeed, the stage itself, is simply the reduced copy (thrown by some arrangements of lights and reflection upon the glass we are watching) of an actual stage and an actual performer who is singing on the other side of the partition.

LARGER and more important works have been carried out by despotic sovereigns and great empires, but the cathedral of the city of Dante owes its beginning and ending, its qualities and dignity, whatever they may be, to the mis-remittent but steadfast determination of the people of Florence, its origin not being due to the genius of one man or the enlightenment of a sovereign but to the taste and devotion of that people. The vicissitudes of its construction are, as an example of civic vitality and character, of a romantic interest, and in the history of architecture it stands alone as a result of popular will and direction. For its architect was neither Arnolfo nor Brunelleschi, but the council of the workmen and citizens of Florence.

OF course Henry M. Stanley, the great African explorer, is known by reputation to everybody, says a Little Rock dispatch in the Missouri Republican, but in conversation with Col. Lee L. Thompson, who was State Senator from Little Rock two years ago, the following bit of conversation concerning the explorer's early career in Arkansas was learned: In 1862 Stanley entered the Confederate service as First Lieutenant in Capt. Whitsett's company, Col. Lee L. Thompson's regiment. He was a bright, sparkling young man, about five feet nine and a half inches in height, weighing 135 pounds, and in complexion a blonde. For awhile he was the life of his company, his experience in the world, his native shrewdness, and liberal education combining to make him the center of attraction in the camp. In the spring of 1862 the regiment was camped on the Arkansas River just below Ozark, and while thus camped pay-day rolled around. The Quartermaster was also paymaster, and, although a little irregular in procedure, he would foot up the amount due each company and turn the gross amount over to the senior officer of the company for distribution among the soldiers. At this time Capt. Whitsett was absent, and Lieut. Stanley was, of course, the senior officer, acting as captain. Into his hands the money was placed to pay out to the men. That morning he obtained a leave of absence for the day and at once rode away into the country. When night began to draw her sable robes around the scenes of nature the young lieutenant was still absent. Knowing him to be a Northern man the soldiers at once became uneasy, and without hesitancy expressed their fears to Col. Thompson. Next morning Col. Thompson started two men in pursuit of the absent man. They got on his trail and followed him to the Rio Grande River, but were unable to catch him. He had money, and would occasionally buy a fresh horse. The two men sent after Stanley were gone forty days. Stanley worked his way North, and later on, during the conflict, returned to Arkansas with the Union forces, but this time his weapon was the pen, not the sword. he was the correspondent of the New York Herald. The above is authentic history, detailed by Col. Thompson, but appearing in print for the first time.

DYSPEPSIA

Up to a few weeks ago I considered myself the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried almost everything claimed to be a remedy for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had almost made up my mind to abandon all medicines when I noticed an endorsement of SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR by a prominent Georgian, a purist whom I knew, and concluded to try its effects in my case. I have used but two bottles and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. I felt its beneficial effects almost immediately. Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what one shall or shall not eat. This fact alone ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia.

Where Irving Is Buried.

From a paper by Clarence Cook in The Century, we quote as follows: "I confess I heard not without a secret pleasure that the relic-hunters so chip and hammer the stone that marks Irving's grave as to make its frequent renewal necessary. It did not seem to me a grievous wrong, but rather a testimony to the lovableness of Irving's character, and an evidence of the wide extent of his fame, that, from filling the circle of the educated and refined among his countrymen, has now come to include that lower stratum of our common humanity which has only instinctive and, so to speak, mechanical ways of expressing its feelings.

"It would not have been easy to find a place more in harmony with the associations that gather about Irving's name as a writer than the spot in which he is buried. Even to-day, when all the changes that have been brought about by the growth of the neighboring settlement, the spirit of peace and quiet that used to brood over the region hovers there undisturbed. Irving's own words, in the 'Legend of Sleepy Hollow,' describing the graveyard, the old church, and the stream that plays about its feet, reflect with the faithfulness of a mirror the scene as we behold it to-day.

"Here is the church, a small building with rough sides of the country-stone, surmounted by a picturesque roof, and with an open bell-turret over which still veers the vane-pierced with the initials of the Vrederick Pelyposs who built the church and endowed it in 1699. In our rambles about the graveyard we used to find the bricks of light-colored clay, brought from Holland, and of which, so tradition said, the church had been originally built, or which had, at any rate, been largely used in its construction.

"The church was seldom used, except in the summer time. On communion Sundays the handsome seventeenth century Jacobean table of oak brought from Holland, where plenty like it may still be found, was set out, as it is to-day, with the plain vessels of silver 'presented by Queen Anne,' as the formula goes, that used to please my childish taste for things that had about them the flavor of old days.

"The same budding taste for antiquities led me and some of my schoolmates to the old grave-yard, where we hunted up the oldest tombstones, scraping off the moss and lichens to decipher the names and dates, and enjoying many a laugh over their carved ornaments, as rills, and cockle-shells, and sturdy, cleft-lipped, leech-like cherubs, with their stumpy little wings scored like checker-boards for plumage. Many of these gravestones were said to have been imported from Holland by the early settlers, like the bricks of which the church was built, the table in the church, and much of the furniture to be found in the farm-houses of the country-side, chairs and tables, cupboards, and even looking-glasses. The carvings, memorial verses, and scripture-texts upon these tombstones were cut by the more skilful workmen over-seas, and the names and dates were filled in here at home as occasion called."

Dropping Out of the Sky.

The descent of a balloon in a remote backwoods settlement is almost invariably productive of amusing incidents. Landing once in a mountainous district in the State of Georgia, writes King, the aeronaut, my companion and myself were astonished at hearing loud shrieks and exclamations issuing from a house near by, while in the doorway we saw an old lady upon her knees, praying with great vociferation. The whole neighborhood had been aroused, and an earthquake could not have excited greater commotion. In the woods, not far from our landing place, we found a bag of meal lying in the path. It had been dropped by some panic-stricken native. Farther on a fishing party had abandoned several strings of fish. Our comedy came measurably near ending in tragedy, for we had a narrow escape from the shotguns of a gang of illicit distillers, who took us to be revenue officers. On the occasion of a recent descent in Southern Virginia a devout colored woman, catching sight of the balloon, gazed upon it in rapt admiration, exclaiming:

"I knows my blessed Jesus, walking on de clouds! I tells my children out on de public road! Suffin' gwine to happen! Hallelujah!" and she went on shouting till the truth was explained to her.

Another Afro-American, hearing me call to him, started off at full speed, crying, as he ran:

"Gabriel's done called me, I hear him holler!"

Very amusing was the experience of Elliot, in one of his descents. He had ascended from Charleston on a summer afternoon and was carried slowly down the harbor, landing at last, just at nightfall, on one of the islands. There was to be a wake that night, and the dead negro, Dick by name, lay in the cabin, while a dozen live ones sat outside telling spook stories, when Elliot dropped down in front of them. There was a yell, a scramble, and in a moment all but one had disappeared. He had been caught by the aeronaut's anchor and dragged some distance, screaming piteously:

"Oh, Massa Debil! Massa Debil! I'se not de nigger! I'se not de nigger! Dick's in dah! Dick's in dah!"—The Argonaut.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

By Rail in Mexico.

The train is made up of first, second, and third-class cars, says Charles Dudley Warner, writing in Harper's Magazine of a railway journey in Mexico. The Mexican men in the first-class, yellow half-breeds, are gorgeous in array, wearing enormous and heavy high crowned, broad-brimmed hats, loaded with silver and gold bullion, trousers braided down the seams or thick seen with coins or buttons of silver, every man with a pistol ostentatiously strapped on his waist, and many of them carrying guns. These gentlemen are going to hunt at some hacienda in the hills, and at the stations where they alight there is great scurrying about, getting into richly carriages, mounting heavily caparisoned little horses, which fidget and curvet. There is an amusing air of bravado about it all.

The third-class cars have four parallel benches running from end to end, and are packed with a motley throng—Indian-looking Mexican women in blue rebosas, plenty of children and babies, men in soiled serapes and big hats, everybody eating some odd mess. At all the stations the train makes a long halt, and the sides of the cars swarm with hucksters, mostly women and boys, offering the saperas and other tasteless fruits, tamales and other indescribable edibles, ices (flavored and colored snow), pink drinks faintly savored with fruits, and pulque. The tamale is a favorite composite all over the republic. It consists of chopped meat, tomatoes, and chile rolled in a tortilla. The tortilla, perhaps it is necessary to say, the almost universal country substitute for bread, is a cake made of maize, and about the size of a large buck-wheat cake. Its manufacture is one of the chief occupations of the women. In almost every hut and garden one can hear the grinding and the patting of the tortilla. Seated on the ground the woman has beside her a dish of soaking grains of maize. In front of her is a curved stone, and upon this she mashes the maize with a stone roller held in both hands until it is a paste. This paste she molds and shillfully pats into shape, and lays upon a piece of sheet-iron to bake over a charcoal fire.

Giants to Order.

Medieval literature abounds in giants. A monstrous one was found in England in 1171: the bones of Polyphemus were dug up in Sicily, and from time to time such remains were discovered all over Europe, and as the finders always knew the particular individual to whom the bones belonged, many duly labeled were hung up in the churches. Thus an elephant's shoulder-blade did duty for St. Christopher in a Venetian church, and the bones of Teutobocchus, King of the Teutons (now known to be a mastodon's skeleton), were, according to Maguya, found in a brick tomb bearing the inscription: "Teutobocchus rex." Felix Plater's fame as giant which still figures in the arms of Lucerne, rose from the elephant remains found in 1577. A large elephant's tooth was sent from Constantinople to Vienna and offered to the Emperor for 2,000 thalers. The discoverers pretended to have found it in a subterranean chamber at Jerusalem which bore the Chaldean inscription: "Here lies the Giant Og." But this was too great a strain on the faith of a very credulous age, and the Emperor declined to purchase because, as Lambecius quaintly says, "the whole thing looked very like an imposition."—Scribner's

New and Old Violins.

There is a great deal of nonsense afloat about the "new principle" of making violins, by which new instruments are as desirable as old. People are all at sea about the worth of a violin. Why, if $100 were paid for a new violin, as is often advertised, it is a high price showing less wisdom than an abundance of money. Any sum above $100 is an artificial price, just as in the case of china bric-a-brac, where fashion makes the market. The fashion is rather violent, I might add, at present, and violins made on "a new principle" are quoted high. The value of age is that it mellows the tone, and there is no new principle that can accomplish that. The ear of the average mortal is not sensible to the finer qualities of tone, and hence a new violin is as exquisite to it as the oldest Cremona. Twenty-five dollars is a good price for a new violin, but there is no quotation on an old one. One rule is that it is worth what we can get.—St. Louis Republican.

LIBERTY is the right to do what the laws allow; and if a citizen could do what they forbid it would be no longer liberty, because others would have the same power.—Montesquieu.

IT WON'T BAKE BREAD.—In other words, Hood's Sarsaparilla will not do impossibilities. Its proprietors tell plainly what it has done, submit proofs from sources of unquestioned reliability, and ask you frankly if you are suffering from any disease or affection caused or promoted by impure blood or low state of the system, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. The experiences of others is sufficient assurances that you will not be disappointed in the result.

Care for the Children

Children feel the debility of the changing seasons, even more than adults, and they become cross, peevish, and uncontrollable. The blood should be cleansed and the system invigorated by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Last Spring my two children were vaccinated. Soon after, they broke all out with running sores, so dreadful I thought I should lose them. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured them completely; and they have been healthy ever since. I do feel that Hood's Sarsaparilla saved my children's lives."—Mrs. C. L. Thompson, West Warren, Mass.

Purify the Blood

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla loses up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over."—J. P. Thompson, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold."—I. Harrington, 120 Bank Street, New York City.

Ray is serving a jail sentence and will be made to answer the charge of grand larceny when he gets out. His mother used to keep the Fleming house and the orders of the visionary youth will be recalled.

The Kiowa, Kansas, Journal says: "D. A. Woodworth came down from Kansas City some time ago and went out on the prairies with some of the boys to hunt wild, wild wolves. D. A. Woodworth became very much excited, and described in the most graphic manner the chase after the voracious beast of the prairie. The truth of the business is that the wolf was a little tame animal taken from Coulson's menagerie by Cattell and others and painted off on Woodworth as the wildest kind of a wolf. The boys had a good laugh after Woodworth left town."

EXAMINE BEFORE YOU BUY.

When in the grocer's store you stand
And cakes of IVORY SOAP demand,
Be careful not to be misled
And imitations take instead,
For dealers oft will praises sing
Of that which may more profit bring.
Let not your senses clouded be
Because a snowy cake you see,
For villainy is not confined
To darkest colors, bear in mind,
And oft the sham is not remote
From fairest face or whitest coat.
Examine well with careful eye
The cake until the name you spy,
And always thus be will assured
That IVORY SOAP you have procured;
And should a lingering doubt remain,
'Twill vanish, like the darkest stain,
When in the tub on washing day
That cake of soap is brought in play.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.
